I'm going to take a look at our friend Bruce."

On the following day Baird sailed away, and Storm and Hunt sathed down to the grin business of watch-ing two men. But these two men scented danger. They never went near the sanitarium.

period, although his visit to Independperiod, although his visit to Independ-once hall was projected purely in a split of mischief by his entertainers. In runmaging in the garret the party discovered the old curked belt, which had been somewhat contemptuously hidden away, and this more than any other rule seemed to fascinate the prince, whose words have been thus created.

This old belt is the greatest relic "This out belt is the greatest relic this republic has today. Instead of being here, covered with this accumulated dirt, it should occupy the chief is to you what the Magna Chartie is to gou what the Magna Chartie is to England. It is erocked, but it is an impriration. Before me, my friends. It affects has more than anything I have been shown."

The good sense of this auggestion ap-ented immediately to the pride and enablity of the custodians of the relies, and from that noment the Lib-erry bell rook its "that place in the ball of independence."

Heat Waves.
Heat ouves, says Edwin C. Martin, author of "Our Own Weather," proceed discourses directly in proportion as bot nights are combined with hot days. For a number of days successively the For a number of days successively the heat may mount during the day to ex-traordinary heights, but if the inter-rening nights turn comparatively con-tine number of prostrations and deaths will be much less than under a consid-erably lower temperature continuing with scant abatement through the day and night. Thus any situation that pscullarly favors couling off at night has a clear advantage during the prevpeculiarly favore costing off at signi-has a clear advantage during the prev-plence of a hot wave. It is also up od-vantuage to be intreed to heat. The same degree of it that would cause great suffering to the people of the north imposes nothing more than else constant on the people of the south.
